We realized that if we take down some non load bearing walls, we could create a studio space with a separate entry the will be a perfect spot for my mother in law and any future aging family who will need to stay close to us. The square footage is a little under 300 sq ft. I will be the one pulling the permits and doing the work with the help of a friend who is teaching me how to do renovation work. I have had an electrician add power/upgrade our panels to the home to allow us to provide electricity to this project. We are close to having plumbers come out and rough in the plumbing for the space for a kitchenette, laundry, bathroom with shower. The floor plan will be open except for the entry into the bathroom.
